Loose Window catches (Seitz type windows etc)

If you have a loose window catch in your van and you cannot see any fixing screws – look for a small hole adjacent to the catch lever. By pushing a stout paper clip or similar into this hole, you will release a hidden clip and so allow the catch to be slid sideways and expose the retaining screws. Tighten the screws gently and slide the catch back into place. If a catch incorporating a stay arm needs tightening you'll probably need help to hold the window open whilst you slide the catch and stay arm out of the way.
